

MATERIAL: brick + insulation & double glazed windows

Brick is still the most common building material in London. Due to its high thermal conductivity it must be insulated - usually with various types of insulation foams.

