

Glass Extension in London Architect: Paul Archer Design, London

The roof is a single sheet of laminated glass, supported on glass beams that direct the forces via stainless-steel fixings into the glass walls sunken into the ground. A full-scale mock-up of the structure was tested to breaking point.

